

Holy Land Studies:
A Multidisciplinary Journal:

- Encourages reflection upon and analysis of social, cultural and economic conditions
- Promotes critical, innovative and sensitive approaches
- Considers wider social, political and cultural settings

Editor: Nur Masalha, St Mary's
University College, London
Two issues per year
ISSN 1474-9475
eISSN 1750-0125

Holy Land Studies: A Multidisciplinary Journal is a fully refereed journal. It publishes new and provocative ideas, paying particular attention to issues that have a contemporary relevance and a wider public interest. It is aimed at an academic and wider public readership. It draws upon expertise from virtually all relevant disciplines (history, culture, politics, religion, archaeology, sociology). Over time it will deal with a wide range of topics: 'two nations' and 'three faiths'; conflicting Israeli and Palestinian perspectives; social and economic conditions; Palestine in history and today; ecumenism and interfaith relations; modernisation, religious revivals and fundamentalisms; Zionism and Post-Zionism; the 'new historiography' of Israel and Palestine. Conventionally these diversified discourses are kept apart. This journal brings them together.

Edinburgh University Press publishes more than 30 scholarly journals a year in a range of subject areas covering the arts, humanities, social sciences and science:

2008 Journals

African Studies

- Africa
- African Journal of International and Comparative Law

Historical Studies

- Architectural Heritage
- Archives of natural history
- Innes Review, The
- International Journal of Humanities & Arts Computing (formerly History and Computing)
- Journal of Scottish Historical Studies
- Psychoanalysis and History
- Scottish Archaeological Journal
- Scottish Historical Review, The

Islamic and Middle Eastern Studies

- Holy Land Studies: A Multidisciplinary Journal
- Journal of Qur'anic Studies

Linguistics

- Corpora
- Word Structure

Literary Studies

- Ben Jonson Journal
- Comparative Critical Studies
- International Research in Children's Literature
- Journal of Victorian Culture
- Paragraph
- Romanticism
- Translation and Literature

Film, Media and Cultural Studies

- Dance Research
- Journal of British Cinema and Television

Philosophy and Religion

- Deleuze Studies
- Derrida Today
- Episteme: A Journal of Social Epistemology
- Journal of Scottish Philosophy
- Oxford Literary Review
- Studies in World Christianity

Politics and Law

- Edinburgh Law Review, The
- Journal of International Political Theory (formerly Politics and Ethics Review)

Science and Medical

- Plant Ecology and Diversity
- The Surgeon

Visit www.eupjournals.com to:

- View every issue of every journal
- Browse contents lists
- Search our complete catalogue online
- Order online – print only, online only or print and online package

Contact us - journals@eup.ed.ac.uk

